March 19, 2010

In preparation for servicing a major expansion of their customer base, InfiniTek has secured the services of an acclaimed expansion and project enhancement expert.

John Rafanello comes to InfiniTek with many accomplishments, including the successful completion of a contract with the Disney Corporation that insured that the Disneyworld EPCOT project opened on schedule on time when the project was severely behind schedule and the original scheduled opening date was considered nearly impossible. Needless to say, with John at the helm, Disney was able to open EPCOT on time.

John is an expert in the Total Quality Assurances Technologies that enabled the Japanese auto and electronics industries to dominate these fields. He is renowned for his skill in empowering company personnel with the ability to accomplish their objectives with greater and greater ease.

In addition to his former training as a space electronics engineer, he holds a Doctorate in Applied Psychology and has accomplished all the work necessary towards a PhD in Quantum Physics.

He makes a most valuable addition to our staff and we look forward to his ongoing contribution to our continued expansion.
